Quick question on the following – I have been highlighting areas where new information related to EJ was factored into risk management decisions. I am very not familiar with this effort and where we landed on it. Can you let me know where it currently stands in our assessment? thanks

When reliable data are available, HED has conducted risk assessments or screened potential exposure scenarios to address possible risks that would not be addressed using conventional methods. Following are a few specific examples that were discussed in the HED EJ Training:

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

Michael L. Goodis, P.E.
Acting Deputy Director for Programs
Office of Pesticide Programs
Office of Chemical Safety and Pollution Prevention
U.S. Environmental Protection Agency
Washington, D.C.
